Course Description:
Marijuana is on the verge of legalization; what will be the societal consequences? Should Miami’s official language be made Spanish, and why does such a possibility make some members of society uncomfortable? Why are female college students more vulnerable to sexual assault than most other groups of U.S. women? Why is it that the largest group of consumers of "gangsta rap" are white adolescent boys? These questions are a small sampling of the challenges that we’ll explore together this semester. In this course, you will conduct research and develop grounded sociological theory from the study of "real life." The sociological experience will facilitate your skills for achieving success by learning to work with fellow students to achieve goals as a team, a skill employers seek. You will also learn to practice sociology as a martial art, a means of self-defense against oppressive ideologies. Sociology will help you combat the assumptions and stereotypes that impact your life chances, as well as others'. Ultimately, you will become a social historian of your own life, able to trace the forces that led you to your present circumstances and identity.
Learning Goals- upon successful completion of this course, you will be able to:

1) Apply theories of sociology to real-world situations and scenarios.

2) Assess researchers’ employment of sociological research methods.

3) Interpret and assess sociological journal articles and compare them with popular media.

4) Consider the causes and consequences of inequalities by employing sociological evidence and theory.

5) Trace the societal forces that led you to be who you are presently; you will do the same for other groups of people.

6) Gain empathy for other groups of people (as well as your own group) through assessment of how power affects all human beings.

Grading Scheme

Learning Catalytics: You will need to sign up with Learning Catalytics for this course. There will be two Learning Catalytics questions given during each class period. These questions range from true/false to short essay, and cover current events and issues that are relevant to sociology. One question will be given at the beginning of class, and another will happen at a random time during the class. You will be responsible for answering each question during the class. You must be present to get the code to answer each question. If you do not answer the two Learning Catalytics questions during class, then you will be counted as absent. If you answer only one of the two questions, you will still be counted as absent. Please do not be late or absent, because this class is built on our mutual presence and discussions. Also, every three absences will result in you being marked down by one letter grade in the overall class.

How to set up Learning Catalytics for this class- Follow the instructions at this link: https://media.pearsoncmg.com/long/CEPM.selfpaced/Learning%20Catalytics/FDOC/Get_STARTED_Flyer_Learning_Catalytics.pdf

Module Quizzes- You will take quizzes on each learning module within a chapter. These quizzes are taken through the Revel online system for the class. You get three attempts to take the quiz. However, after the first attempt, each time you take it, a point is subtracted from your potential quiz grade. Due the Tuesday of each week of class (see class schedule below for more details). Total Points: 1,539

Chapter Quizzes- You will take a chapter quiz for each chapter of the text. These quizzes are taken through the Revel online system for the class. You will also get three attempts to take the chapter quiz, but with a point subtraction for each attempt after the first attempt. Due the Tuesday of each week of class (see class schedule below for more details). Total Points: 870

Critical Assessment of a Sociology Journal Article Paper- You will create an assessment of one sociology journal article, of your choosing. The research paper requires students to write a review of a sociological study that has been published either in book form OR in article form as a peer-reviewed sociology journal. You must state the title and author of your article, the name of the Journal or book, and the date of publication on the title page of your paper.
The review will include a summary of the focus of the research, the research methods employed, and the findings, as well as the student’s explanation of why this research is important. The paper is required to be 5-7 pages, typed, double-spaced, 1” margins, 12 point font.

How the paper should be organized:
- Cover Page: NO NUMBER APPEARS ON THIS PAGE, Student’s Name and Student’s ID#, Author/s and title of article, title of Journal, publication date.
- Summary of article or book: minimum 1-2 double-spaced pages.
- Description of research methods: minimum 1 double-spaced page.
- Description of findings: minimum 1-2 double-spaced pages.
- Student’s explanation as to why this research is important: minimum 2 pages.
- The Last Page is the Works Cited Page, where you will write the full citation of the article in either APA or MLA.

Other Requirements: You may only use one direct quote of no longer than two sentences in your paper. More than one direct quote will result in deduction of points from your grade. The purpose of this paper is, in part, to encourage you to learn to translate research into your own words. The paper must be submitted to Revel prior to the class deadline for submission. APA or MLA formatting is acceptable.

To find a full-text academic sociology article: DO NOT RUN A GOOGLE SEARCH (this is a big waste of your time). (And Google Scholar? Those articles tend to be older.)
Go to: FIU Libraries, catalogue search, search, Academic Onefile [Fun Fact: your tuition pays for thousands of subscriptions to academic journals.]
Then run an advanced search of sociology journals. Be patient and be prepared to run several searches before you find an article that interests you. You must check the box “full text” to get full text articles.
You will upload this paper into Revel, and it will be automatically checked for “similarities” through turnitin.com. Due Friday, November 13th at 11:00 pm. Total of one paper per semester. Total Points: 591

Grading Scale: A 3,000-2,851; A- 2,850-2,701; B+ 2,700-2,551; B- 2,550-2,401; C+ 2,400-2,251; C 2,250-2,101; D+ 2,100-1,951; D 1,950-1,801; D- 1,800-1,650; F 1,649-0 (Please Note: every three absences will result in you being marked down by one letter grade in the overall class.)

1. Attendance: Attendance will be taken during each class, via the questions you will answer via Learning Catalytics.
2. Your lowest week’s grade will be automatically dropped: Your lowest week’s grade will be dropped at the end of the semester when grades are being calculated. This means that the week where you earned the lowest grade on the module quizzes and chapter quiz combined will be automatically dropped. You may not “mix” a lowest module grade from one week with a lowest chapter quiz grade from another week.

3. E-mails: Please note that you are welcome to meet with me during my office hours, Monday from 10:00-11:30 to discuss the course, your assignments, and/or your grade. Please note that I will not answer questions about your grade, or your assignments, via email. We must meet in person to discuss these things. If you cannot attend my office hours, you will need to set up an appointment time with me via email.

4. Readings/Assignments: Success in this course requires familiarity with the textbook. The professor will not cover all material in the text, because the student is responsible for reading the text and posing questions in class. Students are expected to read all assigned chapters before the class period, so that they can pose questions and engage in discussion.

5. Assessments: It is the student’s responsibility to take the module and chapter quizzes by Tuesday of each week of class. These assignments are opened one week in advance. No late work will be accepted.

6. Conduct in the Classroom: If students disrupt the teaching/learning process or act in a disrespectful, threatening, or intimidating way toward the professor or other students, they will be asked to leave the class.
